[For the Roundabout.]

"Will You Think of me To-morrow?"

"Will you think of me to-morrow?"—
This you whisper o'er and o'er,
Dreaming not it breeds a sorrow
In my breast that's deep and sore.
Could you know, you would not doubt
me,

For my heart is thine alone,
And the ties you've wound about me
Are the sweetest I have known.

"Will you think of me to-morrow?"—
Do I think to-night of thee?
Why, then, seek you thus to borrow
From the future's mystery?
If the morn is brightly breaking,
Why the dread of clouds at noon;
For the shadows, if awaking,
Will be o'er all too soon.

"Will you think of me to-morrow?"—
Yea, and many days to come,
Though my path be broad or narrow,
Though I'm wandering or at home;
Be it morning, noon, or shadows
Of the mystic even-tide;
In the city, in the meadows,
On the ocean, far or wide—

I will think of thee and love thee,
Though we never more should meet,

For the very sky above me
And the earth beneath my feet,
Would but whisper, "lonely, lonely,"
When I saw the gloaming-light,
And my soul would echo only,
"Where, oh! where, art thou tonight!"

Resolution on the Death of Dr. W. B. Rodman.

At a meeting of the Physicians of Frankfort the committee on resolutions reported the following resolution which was unanimously adopted and ordered to be printed and a copy sent to the family.

MEMORIAL.

Now that life's portal has closed and death appears upon the horizon, and for Dr. W. B. Rodman all things are voiceless, and to those who knew and loved him there comes the reproachful thought that Heaven has no reviving solace for those stricken ones of his own household and that the tidings of death has gone forth; there is also to-day mourning in the hearts of his brethren of the medical profession, and to those of his professional brethren who enjoyed in his vigor the inspiration of his buoyant spirit and splendid attainments, will gather around his bier, recalling the hallowed recollections of the past. Dr. Rodman was 55 years of age, reared in Frankfort, was graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, while he was scarcely yet of manhood's age, of a brilliant and vivacious nature, clear and analytical mind. Unusually retentive memory, a magnetic manner, he rapidly rose to the front rank in his profession, a position which, by his rare attainments and assiduous attention, he maintained until seventeen years ago when he was stricken with paralysis, which, being on the motor tract, made him helpless physically, but left unimpaired his mental faculties. During all these long and weary years he steadily devoted his otherwise tedious and suffering hours to the pursuit of literature, acquiring a mastership of the German and French languages. He pursued his professional studies in those languages and at the time of his death was probably the most up-to-date physician in the State. French fiction afforded him his recreation from his more solid studies. His proficiency in literature was truly encyclopedic.

His widow, "Virginia Sayre,"

the daughter of the late educator B. B. Sayre, during all these years of weary vigil was his faithful nurse and constant attendant. His immediate family, of one daughter and five sons, seemed to have their greatest pleasure in the ministrations upon their afflicted parent, and each vied with the other in anticipating his comforts and desires. Two brothers, Lieut. Hugh Rodman, of the noted Raleigh, and Dr. John Rodman, of Texas, and two sisters, Mrs. Pattie Wright and Mrs. Nannie Duvall, survive him. Rest in peace poor weary, afflicted body. Those distorted hands—now regained their symmetry and dexterity—can wake the strains of Heavenly music, the echo of which will be felt in many a lonely heart that while here he cheered. Those palsied feet—so long the seat of pain and disfigurement—are walking the golden streets in all their youthful vigor, and that carriage that here—before stricken with disease—was as elastic as the tread of the roe of the mountain—is restored in intensified healthfulness.

May his memory be kept green in the hearts of his brethren, and the remembrance of that kind and affectionate heart and genial and loving presence ever remain a benediction to his bereaved family.

Committee.

Fred H. Roberts, Private Secretary of Gov. Bradley, in the absence of the Governor.

A suitable response was made on behalf of the order by Commander T. H. Lowery, of Pennsylvania.

A musical program was then rendered for the entertainment of the delegates, of whom there were about fifty present.

The full delegations did not arrive until Tuesday morning, when the business session was held at the hall of the order in Odd Fellows' Temple.

Louisville was selected as the place of meeting for next year.

Resignation Accepted.

The resignation of Rev. Dr. W. H. Whitesitt, as President of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, as well as the Professorship of Church History, was accepted by the Board of Trustees by the close vote of 22 yeas to 20 nays.

Rev. Dr. John P. Green, of Missouri, was afterwards unanimously elected to succeed Dr. Whitesitt. Dr. Green is a scholarly and big hearted gentleman, and will make a worthy successor to the eminent man who retires.

This is a happy solution to a vexing and troublesome question.

For Appendicitis.

Mr. Albert H. McClure, who has been a sufferer for some time from appendicitis, went to Louisville Monday, and, on Tuesday morning, submitted to an operation, which was successfully performed, and he has since been doing well.
